

Learners will be able to understand public procurement law applicable to construction contracting, which will assist them in participating in bidding for public project, thereby increasing competition for government construction contracts.

Learners will be able to identify key elements of design service contracts and be able to comply with key contract provisions.

Learners will be able to explain the role of, and necessity for, public project payment and performance bonds, and they will be able to discuss issues related to ordered contract changes, delays and suspensions, and dispute resolution.

Learners will be able to avoid the practice of, or perceived practice of, unethical conduct in government construction projects, including conflicts of interest, gifts, and favors.